

Ladner Minor Baseball Bantam Rules

Overview

At the Bantam level, base paths are set at 80 feet, lead offs and stealing are allowed and games are 7 innings long. Balk balls are called on pitchers and running to 1st on a dropped 3rd strike is allowed (if 1st base is unoccupied, or if 1st base is occupied with 2 out). Pitchers throw from 54' and may pitch up to 7 innings per day and 14 innings per week. Except for at the "AAA" level, all players bat in rotation as 9 man ball is not in effect.

The Bantam division is tiered and at all levels the teams travel to play other associations. Players may try out for the "AAA" team that offers a more competitive level of play. This team will play similar level teams from other associations. Players not selected to the "AAA" teams will be selected to one of the "A" teams which offer a more recreational level of play. These "A" teams will play "A" teams from other associations.

Rules

At the Bantam level, rules are established by BC Minor and can be found in the BC Minor Rule Book.
